

Customised Employment Works

Making employment a reality for people with disability

Often people with disability, particularly those with learning disability, have difficulty finding meaningful work. Their days consist of downtime or leisure activities rather than the typical mix of work commitments and leisure. This free workshop outlines how Customised Employment can help to address this issue.

About the presenter

Milton Tyree has more than 40 years of experience in the design, development and provision of supports and services centred on people with disabilities having access to valued aspects of everyday life. A particular area of interest has been the ongoing struggle around people with disabilities having good employment. Milton's employment efforts have been strongly influenced by the work of the late Dr Marc Gold, and he's an associate with Marc Gold & Associates (MG&A). He is a retired project director of the University of Kentucky's Human Development Institute where he continues part-time work focused on open employment leadership development.

Most of Milton's career has been within his home state of Kentucky. He has also offered training in other US states, Canada, Ireland, India, Australia, and now we are fortunate to have him in New Zealand.

Who is this workshop for?

The workshop will be of particular interest to family members seeking to explore the potential of employment for their loved one with disability.

About the workshop

Customised Employment connects a job candidate's interests and contributions with business needs, opening the door to good employment for many people previously considered unemployable, as well as those whose employment options are limited by labour market job openings.

This workshop explores what needs to be in place for people with disability to have access to good jobs.

What will be covered?

- Supported Employment: Its Purpose and Evolution
- Work Conditions, Interests and Contributions: An Introduction to Discovery
- The Role of the Employment Specialist: Discerning When to Get Involved and When to Step Aside
- Doing a Good Job of Getting a Good Job: An Introduction to Customised Employment and Job Development.

International
Speaker
